Families who do not receive Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) benefits

Delaware's Division of Social Services (DSS) and Department of Education (DOE) are committed to ensuring that children continue to have access to nutritious meals despite schools closing due to the COVID-19 coronavirus pandemic. The United States Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) provided Delaware funds to implement the Pandemic Electronic Benefit Transfer (P-EBT) Program.

1. What is the P-EBT Program?

The P-EBT Program was implemented as a result of the federal public health emergency declaration for COVID-19. It was enacted by Congress in March through the Families First Coronavirus Response Act of 2020. The P-EBT Program provides food assistance to families with children who lost access to free or reduced-price school meals because of school closures caused by the COVID-19 pandemic.

2. Who is eligible for P-EBT benefits?

SNAP and non-SNAP households containing children who lost access to free or reduced-price school meals due to their school closing as a result of COVID-19 will receive P-EBT benefits.

To qualify for P-EBT benefits, children must:

- 1) Be enrolled in kindergarten through 12th grade at a Delaware school that participates in the National School Lunch Program
AND
- 2) Be eligible to receive free or reduced-price school meals when schools are open OR attend a school where all students receive free school meals

Families are eligible to receive P-EBT benefits for each child in their household who qualifies for the P-EBT Program based on these two conditions.

3. My child lives in Delaware but goes to school in another state. Is my child eligible for Delaware's P-EBT Program?

No, only children who attend school in Delaware and receive free or reduced-price school meals are eligible for Delaware's P-EBT Program. If P-EBT benefits are available in the state in which your child attends school, your child may be eligible for P-EBT benefits from that state.

4. My child goes to school in Delaware but lives in another state. Is my child eligible for Delaware's P-EBT Program?

If your child currently attends school in Delaware and receives free or reduced-price school meals, then your child is eligible for Delaware's P-EBT Program.

5. Do I have to apply for P-EBT benefits?

No, you are not required to apply for P-EBT benefits. Families that are eligible for P-EBT are automatically enrolled in the P-EBT Program.

The Division of Social Services and the Department of Education are using school meal information collected from Delaware schools to determine which children are eligible for P-EBT benefits. The information includes children who are currently eligible for free or reduced-price meals and children who attend a school where all students receive free meals.

6. How will I receive my P-EBT benefits?

P-EBT benefits will automatically be loaded onto a family's existing SNAP EBT card or onto one or more new P-EBT card(s). The P-EBT benefits for all of the eligible children in your household will be loaded to your card in three installments in May and June (see the Monthly P-EBT Benefit Schedule).

7. How much in P-EBT benefits will I receive?

Families will receive $5.70 for each day that schools were closed for each child in their household who is participating in the free and reduced-price school meals program. Delaware schools were closed for an average of 65 school days.

Please note: Families who started participating in the school meals program after March 16, 2020 will receive P-EBT benefits beginning from their start date for free or reduced-price school meals.
